Four students from the Fall 04 session of the Field Ecology Workshop surveyed the trees of the North Shore Woods from Wally Bauman to Frautchi Woods. They spent several evenings conducting the survey as the days were getting shorter and work time was limited each day.

Data available

Their summary data provide a good description of this linear woods by area. They took many photos and also researched a time series of air photos to interpret the changes of the last 70 years. All this was integrated into a presentation for the class (copy available).
